I do not know how to listen to Venice Classic Radio

 Venice Classic Radio link is a webradio, you can listen anywhere where an internet connection is present.

I press on the 'Listen' button, but the player does not appear

 In some browsers there is a pop up blocker to stop the opening of pages of unsolicited advertising.

I press on the 'Listen' button, the window opens, but a warning message appears that asks me to install something

 The player of Venice link Classic Radio, being a web application, requires no installation. However, it is possible that the browser asks for the installation of a plugin.

The reception is difficult, because several outages occur

 Listening to Venice Classic Radio requires the receipt of a continuous data stream (the so-called streaming).
For more information, please contact our support.

The reception has been always good, but today there are frequent interruptions or cannot hear anything

 The streaming takes place from our server to all receivers connected to the world through Internet.
Another cause may be attributed to traffic present in the home network: downloading some files (eg. movies, music, etc.).

While using 'Venice Player', a short interruption of about one second occurs

 The interruption of the streaming that occurs every two hours for about one second, using the Venice Player, is a known problem.
